

I Will Praise You Among The People

see Psalm 109.30

- a refrain from a song written by Margaret Harris (lived 1865-1919)

G C G
I will praise You
G C G
I will praise You
G C D
praise You Lamb for sinners slain
G C G Em
and I'll give you glory among the peoples
G D G
for Your blood has washed away each stain

[spontaneous praise below]

G D C
Your blood has washed away each stain
G D C
--- has washed away each stain
G D C
Your blood has washed away each stain
G D C
Your blood has washed away each stain
G D C
Wash away-- each stain
G D C
wash away-- my sin stains
G D C
wash away-- each stain

G D
They're not just covered up C
they're washed away
G D C
the old is gone-- and new is come
G D C washed away washed away
G D C
thank You Lord

G      D      C
They were not just mistakes or accidents
                          G      D      C
they were willful sins of open rebellion
                          G      D      C
wash away-- all my sin stains
                          G      D      C
wash away-- my sin stains

                          G                  D                          C
For Your blood has washed away each stain
                          G                  D                          C
for Your blood has washed away each stain
[thank You Lord Jesus]
                          G                  D                          C
Your blood has washed away each stain

...

G                          D                          C      G D                  C
--- He who is forgiven much --- loves much
G                          D                          C      G D                  C
--- He who is forgiven much --- loves much

                          G                  D                          G
Your blood has washed away each stain
                          G                  D                          G
Your blood has washed away each stain
